In the prophecies of the timeline of history, there are significant focuses upon two particular horns; one of which surfaces in the prophecies regarding the fourth world empire, and one of which surfaces in the third world empire. These two horns have very similar characteristics and the prior one (in the third empire) actually functions as a foreshadowing of the final one (in the fourth empire). These two horns are references to Antiochus Ephiaphanes (in the Greek Empire) and to the yet future Man of Sin (also known as the Antichrist) who will rise to power prior to Christ.
